

The 15th Army Group, 7th US Army & 8th British Army in Southern Europe 1943-1945

EXPAND TO COVER invasion of SICILY, ITALY & OCCUPATION OF AUSTRIA

The following formations of the Second British Army are known or are likely to have used Dingo's during the Italian Campaign:

1st Polish Armoured Division (see file D13)

6th Armd. Div

26th Armd Bde

4th Queen's Own Hussars (proven refer to file D3c)

11th Hussars (proven refer to file D3c).

27th lancers proven refer to file D3b).

12th Lancers (proven refer to file D3b).

3rd & 4th County of London Yeomanry (proven refer to file D6a).

Image courtesy of the IWM, ref NA 24194

5th Army in Italy, Bologna

Photographer: Sgt Radford of the Army Film & Photographic Unit

Description: General Furstenburg, General Theron and General Pool among south African tanks carrying German prisoners. The unit and any other details are not known, there appears to be some kind of windscreen erected at the front of the car?

21st April 1945.

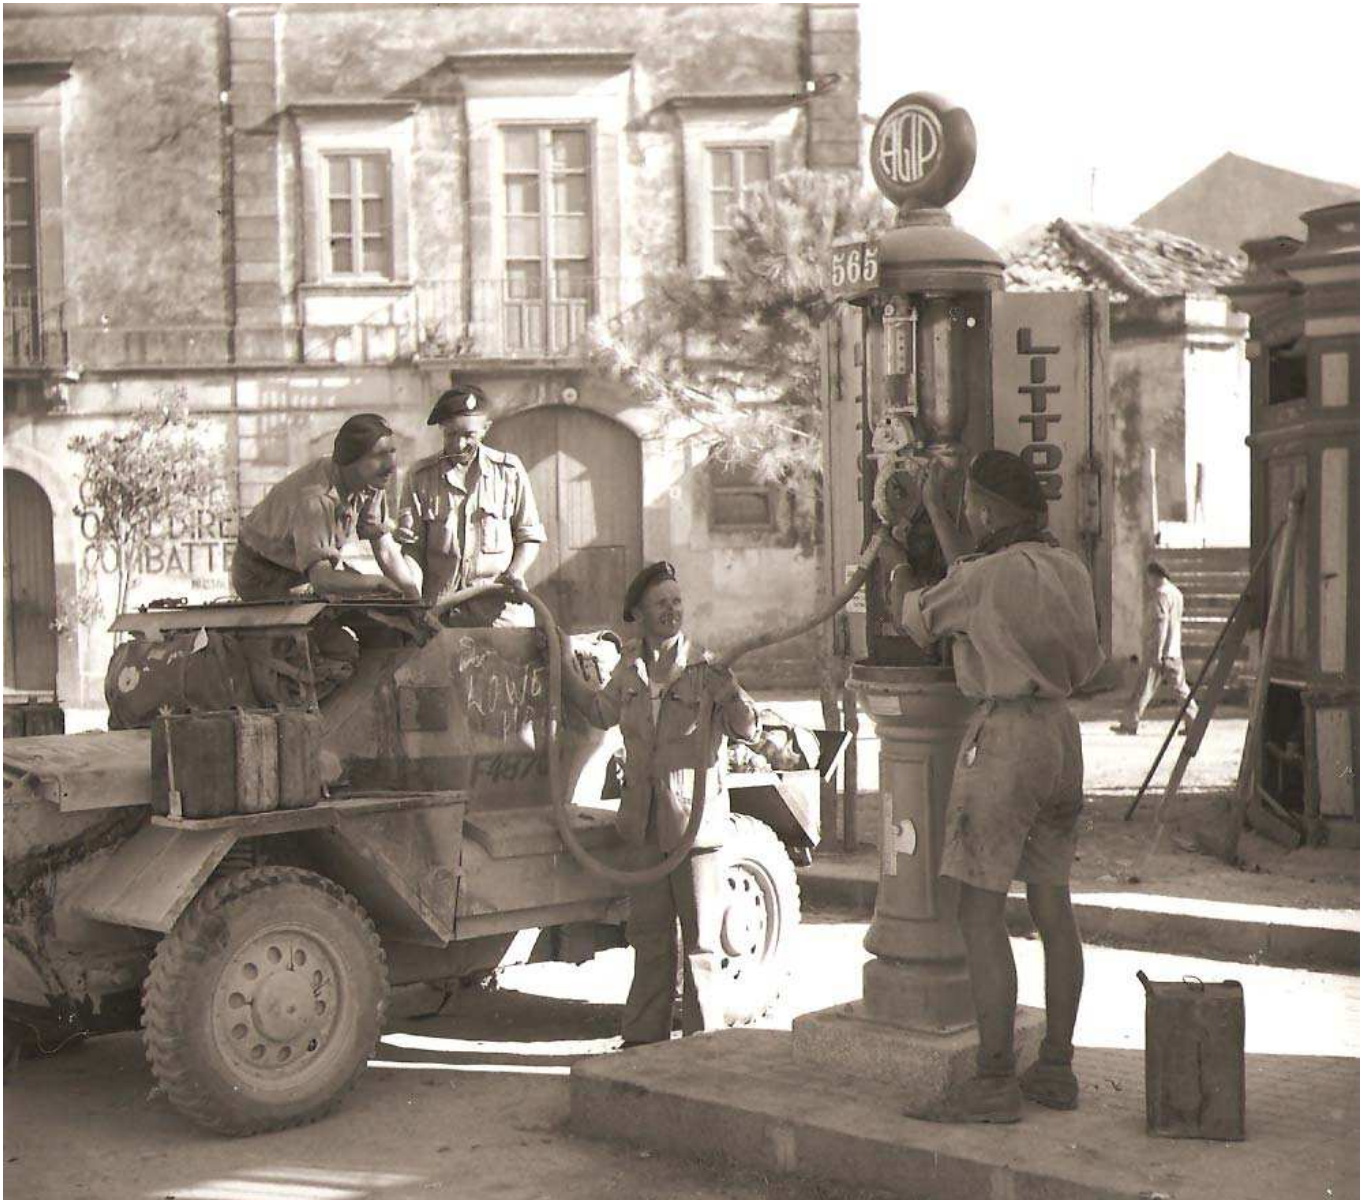

image courtesy of the IWM NA 4555

5th Army in Italy,

Photographer: War Office official photographer

Description: Troopers of the Royal tank Regiment refuel there scout car numbered F48707 before continuing their advance. Retreat of the enemy was so hasty in some areas that he could not even pause to destroy his petrol supplies. Recklessly abandoning them as a welcome 'windfall' to British transport 1943.

image courtesy of the IWM NA24601

8th Army, River Po, Italy

Photographer : Sgt Palmer of Army Film & Photographic Unit

Description: On the far side of the river Po, a fantail unloads its cargo, Dingo scout car F205647.

26th April 1945

Image courtesy of the IWM

Photo Reference NA 5754

Photographer: Stg Loughin, Army Film & Photographic Unit

Description: Men and vehicles of the 2nd Wilts Yeomanry Regiment passing through Fleri, including a Daimler Scout car numbered F47698

9th August, 1943

image courtesy of the IWM NA16605

Italy

Photographer : Army Film & Photographic Unit

Description: The first recce car (Dingo F206033) drives into the sea plane base on Lago Transimeno, the streets appear deserted but the Bren gun is at the ready.

1945

image courtesy of the IWM NA16521

8th Army, Italy

Photographer : Mc Conville of the Army Film & Photographic Unit

Description: The Scout car LITTLE BROTHER has a new rear bevel box fitted, other fitters are taking the opportunity to gain easy access to the rest of the engine, in particular the fluid flywheel which is being checked for oil level.

30th June 1945

image courtesy of the IWM NA15550

Italy

Photographer : Sgt Radford of the Army Film & Photographic Unit

Description: Just outside Ardena, the enemy was shelling the road. The shelling was not heavy but it was accurate and the vehicles of 24Fd Regt RA were halted at the corner under fire. Dingo F206050

2nd May 1945

Image courtesy of the IWM, ref NA 16556

Photographer: Johnson (Sgt) of No 2 Army Film & Photographic Unit

Description: Infantry of the 'Buffs' move up past a Daimler scout car F200302 during the advance of 78th Division,

Italy,

30 June 1944

Image courtesy of the Unknown Source (found by Simon Hammon)
Photographer: Unknown

Description: Army supply vehicles parked along a track near the Liri River, Near Cassino,
Italy

May 21st 1944.

Image courtesy of the British Pathe
Photographer: Unknown

Description: Daimler armoured car proceeds through the recently liberated streets of Scafati, near Naples Italy May 1944.

Image courtesy of the IWM Photo Reference NA 11760

Photographer: Sgt Mc Conville, Army Film & Photographic Unit

Description:

46 RTR Italy 5th Army, Anzio Bridgehead

Tanks and anti tank get together. We did a recce along here, and observed some German tanks explain Sgt A. Hutchinison 46Bn RTR of Sutton Ashfield, Notts to Lieutenant Col J.W. Casey, Chicago, 5th Army anti tank officer.

F. Candy of Kingston upon Thames operator of the Bren gun was a former organist in civvy street and his reputed to be a very light finger, especially with the Bren Gun.

7th February 1944

Photo courtesy of Bovington Tank Museum
A IWM NA 4671
Scilly

Photographer: Sgt Brooke :War Office official photographer

Description: The scene in Militello as our troops entered and welcomed by the civilian population.

12.July.1943

No unit markings are available so it is not possible to confirm the regiment except to say it is unlikely to be the Royals Tank Regiment due to the non black headwear.

Photo courtesy of <http://www.natlib.govt.nz/>
Photograph taken by George Kaye
Description: A New Zealand Dingo makes its way along a street in Sora, Italy,
World War II

Photo courtesy of <http://www.natlib.govt.nz/>
Photograph taken by George Kaye
Description: Brigadier Cyril Weir in his dingo about to visit NZgun positions in Voltorno Valley area, Italy, 11 May 1944.

Photo courtesy of Internet & Smon Hamon
Photographer: Unknown
Description: Thought to be in Italy.... But equally could be Libya etc!
Circa 1943 - 1944.